The headboard is made up of strips of leather, sewn to an organic cotton backing fabric at an angle of 82 degrees then folded over to hide the stitching.

Starting from the top in the middle, layer the strips, alternating sides to create the overlapped, symmetrical appearance of the palm trunk.

Once completed, the fabric will be stitched at the edges to keep the folds in place, then folded around a padded board and pulled tight on the folds to create an organic scalloped edge.

All stitching will be hidden and the fixing panel will coordinate in the same leather.
